December 29, 2008 - The ACM congratulates our colleagues in Barbados who have decided to breathe new life into what used to be one of the more vibrant media worker organisations in the Caribbean region.

Resuscitation of the Barbados Association of Journalists (BAJ) is long overdue and we have confidence in the ability of the interim leadership team to steer it to a very vibrant and effective future.

In its leadership are persons intimately associated with the ACM since its inception in 2001. This will certainly assist in ensuring the organisation establishes and maintains broader regional perspectives on its work and is reassured by the support of the ACM.

We look forward to working with the BAJ as it regains its footing and commit the strength of our regional and international networks to the aims and objects of the organisation.
